As the complexity of the systems have increased, system designers have increasingly found it necessary to rely on remote computer systems to aid the system designers in the process of configuring a particular communication system. Systems have been developed which have included an interactive graphical user interface (GUI) that is accessible to the system designer from a central location or remote computing device. One such GUI-based system is the Configuration Appliance (CAC) from Lucent Technologies® which allows system designers to remotely access configuration programs and parameters stored on the CAC. The CAC system enables system designers to set various parameters, read certain data from the CAC and transfer data between the CAC and a local or remote computer system. The GUI-based system may also include a Database Manager that allows system designers to search through the configuration files stored on the CAC and select particular configuration files for use on a local or remote computer system. KeyMacro is a dictionary extension that provides instant definition of words and short phrases by pressing a predefined button on your keyboard. KeyMacro Dictionary is a dictionary extension that is developed to easily provide instant definition of words and short phrases by pressing a predefined key on your keyboard. It also allows you to see an example sentence for the word that you are looking for. It is created by TecnoKey and is free to use. This dictionary extension provides instantaneous definitions of a word you type in the Google search bar by pressing a predefined key on your keyboard. There are two types of keys available: Predefined – A key on your keyboard that can be customized and then you can assign a different meaning to it, such as “1” for the number one, “m” for the word “mild”, “g” for “good” or “d” for “define”. Custom – Allows you to set the name of the key that you want to use, such as “F1”, “shift+F1”, “q”, “h” or “command+h”. The definition of the word that you are looking for appears when you press that key on your keyboard. Dictionary definitions with instant translations It is also possible to get an instant translation of a word that you type in the Google search bar by pressing a predefined key on your keyboard. In this case, it is necessary to have the browser set to allow the execution of files with a ".http" extension (such as a.txt,.html,.php or.asp file). This can be done by clicking "Settings" -> "Content Settings" -> "Default Content Settings" -> "Execute file types" and selecting "All files with a ".http extension" on a non-Excel or non-PowerPoint file. Additional Features: Create your own list of words that can be used for automatic translations and definition of words you type in the Google search bar. KeyMacro includes a great set of examples of what each key means. You can also add a description of the key. This is important because it helps you recognize the key you want to assign for instant translations, since there are many different keys on a keyboard that you can use for the same purpose.
